Conclusion

From 2023 to 2025, the number of eligible online program graduates at NYU shows a slight overall decline — from 3,665 in 2023 to 2,838 in 2025. Interestingly, while the number of online programs represented increased from 38 to 43, the number of eligible students decreased, suggesting smaller cohort sizes or shifts in program enrollment.

Additionally, although the eligible graduate count in 2025 was similar to 2024, candidate ticket orders dropped by nearly 200, indicating a possible decrease in student participation or interest in attending the ceremony.

These findings highlight important trends for future planning — not only in terms of ticket logistics and gate assignments, but also in understanding evolving engagement patterns among online students.
